Nuestra biblioteca

La Biblioteca de Préstamo Bartleby nació con el ánimo de abastecer de lecturas a todos aquellos emigrados españoles e Iatinoamericanos que están de paso por la ciudad y que no pueden permitirse acumular libros antes de proseguir su viaje. También concebimos la biblioteca para todas aquellas personas que viven en Berlín y que, como nosotros, aman la cultura del préstamo y el intercambio. Con el tiempo, nuestra biblioteca ya cuenta con más de 1.000 socios históricos, lectores con perfiles de todo tipo que mantienen viva la tradición de este pequeño club bibliográfico. El precio del carnet es de 30 euros, y te permitirá sacar 3 libros cada 15 días durante todo un año. El carnet de biblioteca también puede ser un regalo estupendo, siempre y cuando la persona que lo reciba viva también en Berlín.

Actualizamos el fondo de la biblioteca a menudo y nos aseguramos de que no falten los clásicos de hoy y siempre ni las novedades más interesantes. Echo un vistazo a los más 3000 títulos en castellano que conforman nuestra biblioteca.

Para hacerte socio/a de la biblioteca y poder tener acceso a los títulos del catálogo no necesitas foto, Anmeldung ni nada complicado. Pasa por la librería o compra online tu carnet anual por 30 euros. i

The Bookshop Co-op is a bookseller with programming aimed at empowering our friends and neighbors and connecting people with the literature they didn't know they needed.

About Us

Based in Stevens Point, WI, The Bookshop Co-op is a justice-driven, cooperatively owned, and operated pop-up bookstore, serving as a vehicle for education and community building. We sell consciousness-raising books, documentaries, and board games, and we sponsor events and programs such as wine and book pairings, cooperative game nights, pet adoption, and other events. We aim to foster societal transformations through access to knowledge in our community. We believe that every community deserves organizations that push the public consciousness to engage with the world more critically and approach each other with radical kindness. We also know that it's not enough to just know that inequalities exist but to instead have a critical and class-conscious approach to understanding why these issues exist and what we can all do to make the systems we interact with more equitable. We're more than just a bookshop; we're a force for good in our community.

Notes from the US: Spreading the disease (2)

February 21st: The onslaught of a racist, destructive and lethal government is now in full train (pt.2) ~ Louis Further ~ A lot has happened since Trump was inaugurated last month, so much that we are presenting this month's update in two parts.

NEWS

to lead to various forms of violence, including self-harm and interpersonal violence, particularly violence that occurs in criminalized, stigmatized, isolating or secretive contexts such as domestic relationships or the sex trades.

Harm reduction aims to meet people where they are at, understanding that they may not want to or be able to end a behavior or relationship immediately, or that they may not want to end it at all but, rather, make it easier to manage/navigate/incorporate in their lives. Meeting people where they are at means eliminating stigmas that create psychological distress and result in institutional barriers to services, and it means empowering them to make their own informed choices. We do this through non-judgmental engagement that refuses the distinction between "good" and "bad" drugs, sex acts, and the kinds of sexual and intimate relationships we choose to have with others and our own bodies as we do our best to survive white supremacist capitalist patriarchy. We also do this through the direct provision of resources.

Harm reduction fits into a global movement for social justice built on a belief in, and respect for, the rights of all people, particularly those who use drugs or trade sex. In addition to autonomy, it values community care over isolating punishments, and it considers the structures of racism, ableism, class inequality and other structural oppressions which render people of color, disabled/chronically ill/mentally ill/ mad, and poor and unhoused people in particular at higher risk for dangerous drug use and overdose, dangerous working conditions in criminalized economies like the sex trades, and dangerous relationships within these contexts.

Why does Bluestockings do harm reduction and what does it look like?

Over the years, Bluestockings has become more than just a bookstore, cafe, and events venue-- it has become a true community space for some of the most marginalized and criminalized folks in our neighborhood and our city, particularly people who use drugs and trade sexual services. We honor the responsibility we have to this space we've created and the folks who gather in it, and so we are formalizing and expanding what we can offer them.

To these ends, we currently offer safer sex and drug use products and trainings, including free internal and external condoms, free fentanyl test strips, and free distribution of and trainings in administering the opioid overdose reversal drug naloxone (Narcan). In the future, we are looking to expand our offerings to sex education programming and programming that reduces the health impacts of violence in criminalized economies. Please stay tuned! We do not offer comprehensive harm reduction services to drug users, so if you are looking for a more robust and regular program, please visit our neighbors at the Lower East Side Harm Reduction Center at 35 East Broadway or the Keith D. Cylar Community Health Center at 743-749 E 9th Street.

Why harm reduction and not harm elimination?

Decades of research demonstrates that harm reduction approaches result in lower rates of disease transmission and progression, serious injury, and fatality, allowing our communities to survive long enough to move onto safer ways of being that we define and create for ourselves. In other words, it is a step to eliminating as much harm as possible by recognizing the humanity and autonomy of all people. It is not an end-all, be-all solution. It is in opposition to the abstinence-only and punishment-based approaches of criminalization and coercive social services, which are also not comprehensive solutions. Those approaches have little evidence base to demonstrate efficacy or efficiency in reducing or eliminating harm, and they are not in alignment with abolitionist values.
